

Oversigt over forskelle på time og tense

Tense	Time
	Past	Present	Future
Present Simple, Simpel nutid		I need a drink.	I leave tomorrow.
	She	likes	coffee.
Present Continuous, Udvidet nutid		I am having a break.	I am leaving for England in a week.
	We are living in Denmark.
Present Perfect Simple, Simpel førnutid	I have spent a year abroad.	I have finished high school.
Present Perfect Continuous, Udvidet førnutid	I have been playing the bass for years.
	We have been studying for two hours.
Past Simple, Simpel datid	The bus left an hour ago.	If the bus left now, I would be on it.	If I came tomorrow, I would really be late.
Past Continuous, Udvidet datid	Leroy was sleeping at 2am this morning.
Past Perfect Simple, Simpel førdatid	Leroy had not eaten for 2 days.
Past Perfect Continuous, Udvidet førdatid	Leroy had been pushing drugs for 2 days.	If he hadn't been pushing drugs now, the officers would have walked right by.	If Leroy had been pushing the streets tomorrow, Nathan would have made other plans.
Future Simple, Simpel fremtid		Stop complaining. I'll do the dishes now.	We'll meet again some day.
Future Continuous, Udvidet fremtid			Leroy will be working the streets again when he gets out of jail.
Future Perfect Simple, Simpel førfremtid			I will be playing basket tonight at 8pm.
	We will have been friends for eight years next month.
Future Perfect Continuous, Udvidet førfremtid			They may be tired when they arrive because they will have been driving for ten hours.
	In 15 minutes, we will have been playing chess for more than five hours.

Regelmæssige udsagnsord

Det er let at bøje regelmæssige udsagnsord i tid på engelsk. Du skal bare følge en simpel regel. I simpel datid og datidstillægsform ender regelmæssige udsagnsord på '- ed'.

Regelmæssige udsagnsord	Base Form, Stammen	Past Simple, Simpel datid	Past participle, Datidstillægsform
I simpel datid og datidstillægsform tilføjes -ed .	play	played	played
	work	worked	worked
	enjoy	enjoyed	enjoyed